eighth, and it looked like a certain defeat for the Bostons.

But in the ninth Pitcher O'Neill climbed high and before he steadied the Bostons made two runs. Moran's decision on giving Bonner, who went to bat in place of Willis, his base on balls, instead of calling him out on strikes, as he should, defeated the Cardinals.

With the bases filled Dexter hit a hard one back of third base, which Brain stopped, but made a horrible wild throw, allowing two runs to cross the plate, tying the score.

In the tenth inning both sides drew blanks, St. Louis was unlucky also in the eleventh inning, while the Bostons, through an error by Burke, and hits by Dexter and Tenney made the one run necessary after two men had gone out.

O'NEILL A PUZZLE.

O'NEILL A PUZZLE.

O'Neill's left-handed delivery was very puzzling to the Bostons up to the ninth inning, when he took the balloon ascension. In all the Boston made seven hits, while the Cardinals made only five, three off Willis and two off Pittenger. Burke batted well, his hard liner, which Willis tried to stop and field in the eighth inning, sending in one of the runs. Stanley led at the bat, but two of his hits were scratches. There were no fielding features worthy of mention.

but two of his hits were scratches. There were no fielding features worthy of mention.

The Cardinals' first run was made by Jack O'Neill. He walked after being hit by a pitched ball, stole second aided by Kittredge's poor throw, reached third on Brain's out, Batty to first base, and scored when Batty threw wild on Barclay's grounder. In the eighth inning Donovan made a run. He was safe on Tenny's muff. reaching second and scoring on Burke's hot liner, which was so hot that Willis could not field it.

In the ninth inning, the Bostons tied the score with two runs. After two had gone out, Stanley hit for two bases. Kittredge walked, Bonner went to bat in place of Willis and drew a gift. With the bases filled, Dexter hit a hard grounder. Brain got it back of third base, but in fielding it to Nichols made such a bad throw that Stanley and Moran, who ran for Kittredge, scored, and Bonner could have done the same had be shown any courage.

The Cardinals TRIED TO TALLY.

The Cardinals tried hard to tally in the tenth inning, and also in the eleventh inning, but badly failed. The Bostons managed to make the winning run by a narrow squeak.

Grand Avenue Athletes Established Eight New Marks in Annual Field Meet.

LAMB BREAKS HAMMER RECORD

Throwing Sixteen Pounds 121 Feet, 7 Inches, by Walls's Handicap, Gives Him First Place.

High School's annual field day at the Pastime grounds yesterday proved the most successful event of the sort held in recent years, eight school records being broken in competition.

Starting with the dashes for boys under five feet and four inches and winding up with the mile run, the programme was one series of establishing new marks.

with the mile run, the programme was one series of establishing new marks.

J. inkenbiner started the record smashing for the youngsters by winning both events for boys in record time, setting a mark of .91.5 in the seventy-five-yard dash, an improvement of .023-5 seconds over the old record, while he broke the fifty-yard mark by 2-5 of a second, setting the record of .052-6.

In the 100-yard scratch race Mason also came to the fore by covering the distance in 10.1-5 seconds, just 1-5 of a second better than the previous mark. Nelson Ricker than the previous mark. Nelson Ricker than came into prominence by breaking his record of last year for the shot put. He put the weight 34 feet 3.5-5 inches, 3-5 of an inch better than last season's mark.

The half-mile record was broken by O'Conneil, who started from the eight-yard mark, but his handicap will prevent the time from standing. The mile run was broken by Marsh Boothy, who ran a good race and covered the distance in 4:57 from scratch, taking 3 seconds off his mark of last year.

One of the best performances of the day was that of Lamb, who was second, in the the hammer throw, breaking te existing record by 16 feet 1 ince and covering 12 feet 7 inches in the attempt. Walls s handicap of 10 feet gave him the victory, however.

cap of 10 feet gave him the victory, however.

In a relay race for members of the alumni and for the school team the alumni relay representatives won rather easily in 2:10.
In the 220-yard dash Michel lowered the school record by quite a margin, covering the distance in 22-1-5.

Considering the youth of the contestants, the time made was really remarkable in the running races, especially in the dashes.
From the showing made by the athletes, the school has the strongest kind of a chance to win an overwhelming victory in the interscholastic meet. Owing to the number of entries in each event, it was 7 o'clock before the programme was concluded.
